Ready to get to know us?

We were founded in 2010 with a dynamic and agile start-up spirit. Since then we have grown into a decacorn with a valuation of over $16.5 billion, backed by Alibaba, General Atlantic, Softbank, Princeville Capital, and several sovereign wealth funds. Operating with that same energy from the first day, we believe we will achieve our targets and grow even more together!

May the tech be with us.

From day one, we believed that technology is the driver; e-commerce is the outcome. Thanks to our dedicated team, we are now one of the top 5 e-commerce companies in EMEA and one of the fastest-growing e-commerce companies in the world! Now we're a team in our thousands, currently delivering more than 1.5 million packages every day to 27 countries. We offer our 30 million customers a flawless shopping experience.

Can't stop, won't stop!

Dreaming big is in our DNA: Gearing up to be the leading global e-commerce platform. As a young and dynamic company, we are constantly growing with Trendyol Tech, one of the leading R&D centers; Trendyol Express, the fastest growing delivery network; Dolap, the largest second-hand goods platform, and Trendyol Go, our instant food and grocery delivery service. And we're not finished yet!

A vision focused on positive impact.

Digitalizing traders and SMEs, helping businesses grow, aiming for more women's participation in the economy; we constantly strive to have a sustainable and positive impact on our customers, business partners, and society.

All team members are equal.

We believe in the power of an inclusive workplace. Our platform is for everyone, and so is our workplace. Each and every one of us contributes to the vibrant culture of Trendyol. The more voices we have represented and amplified in our business, the more we all thrive, contribute, and shape the future together.

About the Team

If you are a techie, you belong in our Technology Team that builds scalable, high-performance platforms for our customers using up-to-date and efficient technologies.

We are all working with the same purpose: To create a positive impact in our ecosystem by enabling commerce through technology.

What will keep you super-motivated here?

- Opportunity to take responsibility from day one, develop your skills and satisfy your hunger for learning every day from a talented, international, and diverse team
- Open communication and unique company culture of flexibility and start-up spirit
- Enjoying agile practices to accelerate big and complex challenges to shape the future of e-commerce while encouraging mistakes to continuously grow and develop as a team
- Creative, diverse, and focused teams committed to learning and problem-solving through collaboration
- Learn and develop through our extensive Trendyol training platform
- Support from a global team of experts, mentoring, and professional development opportunities
- Strong focus on talent, not titles!
- Connecting with your teammates socially regardless of physical distances via events, team gatherings, and social activities
- Competitive employee benefits such as centrally and internationally located offices, and great tech equipment
- Good blend of flexibility and team bonding such as a hybrid working model and three months working from abroad approach

Trendyol is seeking an entrepreneurial and innovative technical product leader to drive the vision of a machine-learning platform. The organization is responsible for building Trendyol's machine learning platform to provide a self-service platform to Trendyol's internal teams. This is an opportunity to work with an innovation roadmap that seeks to redefine how our data scientists build their applications and run them at scale without any dependencies.

We're looking for a passionate Technical Product Manager who is excited to take on new and ambitious projects that will be industry-defining. In this role, the Technical Product Manager will help us define a product strategy for building unified experiences across services in order to accelerate the adoption of the services. You should be curious about ML Ops, data science, and machine learning topics and be customer-focused with a dedication to platform services. You get to develop features that impact hundreds of internal users.

Your Main Responsibilities

- You will define, launch, and manage our product vision, roadmap, and go-to-market strategy to solve the needs of our internal customers by working backward.
- You will lead customer discovery to identify different customer segments.
- You will perform user research to explore new opportunities for innovation on behalf of our customers.
- You will coordinate across many cross-functional team internal teams and be visible at the highest levels of the company.
- You will monitor our product KPIs and turn the data into actionable user stories for the product backlog
- You will help to spread the product mindset to all stakeholders and colleagues

Qualities We Are Looking For

- Having 2+ years of experience in a technology company, preferably creating platform products.
- Having experience working with development and execution teams in bringing new services to reduce cognitive load.
- Showing a data-centric mindset by establishing product metrics and making data-driven decisions.
- Having experience in conducting customer meetings to understand customer needs and pain points.
- Having experience in guiding design sprints.
- Having knowledge of machine learning or at least enthusiast about machine learning.
- The ability to work cooperatively with and gain the respect of the engineering team.
- A growth mindset with a self-starter attitude.
- Analytical skills.
- Experience in user story mapping.
- Having a startup mindset and experience in demand testing, usability testing, and feasibility testing.
- Experience with leading a product in a startup is a plus.
- Experience in the platform services, machine learning tools, and ecosystem is a huge plus
- Good command of written and spoken English.

We believe in the power of an inclusive workplace. Our platform is for everyone, and so is our workplace. Each and every one of us contributes to the vibrant culture of Trendyol. The more voices we have represented and amplified in our business, the more we all thrive, contribute, and shape the future together.
